Re: Our Appeal for Reinstatement!

Dear President Mom Marsha, Engineer Aunt Yanhua and Uncle John H.

We have recently received notification from President Marsha informing us that we've been terminated from our employment, as Treasurers, due to a few errors on line items.

The misunderstanding was due to the line items stated office supplies, but apples and carrots were drop-shipped to our stall. However, we feel we should be reinstated for the following reasons:

- It wasn't as if we ordered our favorite Fuji apples.
- We only ordered a cost-effective lower grade brand apples.
- Carrots are good for vision and therefore can avoid future eye issues, thereby saving Veterinarian costs.
- Once in a great while, we did share a carrot with Minow, one of the horses in the barn.
- We do realize Minow is 100% blind so the carrot could not assist with vision, but we feel that is beside the point and sharing is what should be noted.

We respectfully request that you review our appeal for reinstatement in light of the above information, and reconsider your actions.

If you have any questions or need further information, please contact us when you come to the barn to give us our hay.

We sincerely confess that we may have been wrong. Dusty claims not to have done anything wrong but ate the apples knowing in full that the UPS man told us that it was wrong to have things delivered to the ranch and not the office.

Thank you for your consideration in this matter. Please bring us Fuji Apples, since you're making such a big deal about line items that aren't entirely accurate, but the apples were chosen to be cost-effective, and that should count!

Sincerely,

Quincy and Dusty
